The secure and efficient handling of information and documents is a critical success factor for companies. An essential element when seeking to optimize this flood of paper and information is that corporate documents be reliably protected and encrypted, but at the same time still be available to all those involved in the process everywhere and at all times if required.

Using crossdoxx you can render both data exchange and collaboration within your organization, as well as with your external business partners, in a professional, secure and up-to-date manner. Furthermore crossdoxx provides you to reduce your IT costs permanently, because costly server licenses, lengthy training courses and high installation and administrative costs- traditionally associated with a document management solution- do not exist.
